

LIBERTY TRAVEL APPOINTMENTS: Jack Rice and Pauline Thomas

RETAIL travel agency group Liberty Travel has boosted its leadership structure.

The company, which now has 175 stores, has appointed two new retail leaders, Jack Rice and Pauline Thomas, to oversee day-to-day operations on the East and West coasts.

Jack will be responsible for stores in Upstate New York, New England, North Jersey, Queens, Brooklyn, Staten Island, Florida and the Baltimore/Washington regions, while Pauline will oversee Liberty's stores in Los Angeles and Chicago.

Both will report to Billy McDonough, the leader of Liberty Travel's retail business.

Jack has worked for Liberty for 38 years and has extensive experience as a travel agent, manager and regional leader.

Pauline has joined Liberty from parent company Flight Centre Limited in Australia.

Like Jack, Pauline started her career as a travel agent and managed a number of highly successful stores, before taking on an area leadership role in Western Australia.
